Brazil in the 19th Century

The mid-19th century was a period of transformation for Brazil. The country was still under imperial rule, experiencing social stratification, economic shifts, and debates about identity and modernization. Literature during this time often reflected societal issues, but it also grappled with artistic innovation. Machado de Assis, born in 1839 in Rio de Janeiro, grew up amid these changes. His works are characterized by a keen psychological insight and a skeptical view of societal norms, influenced by European literary movements such as Realism and Pessimism.

Literary Movements and Influences

Machado de Assis's writing is often associated with realism, emphasizing detailed character development and social critique. However, he also pushed the boundaries of realism with elements of satire, existentialism, and metafiction. His influences include: - French literature, especially the works of Flaubert and Baudelaire - European philosophical ideas about absurdity and existentialism - Brazilian oral storytelling traditions The Posthumous Memoirs of Bras Cubas exemplifies these influences, blending humor with philosophical inquiry and narrative innovation.

The novel's irony is sharp and pervasive, often highlighting the absurdity of social ambitions, vanity, and human folly. The playful tone combined with philosophical depth makes the novel both entertaining and thought-provoking.

Introduction to The Posthumous Memoirs of Bras Cubas

The posthumous memoirs of Bras Cubas are not just the autobiography of a deceased man; they are a literary device through which Machado de Assis examines the human condition, societal hypocrisy, and the absurdity of existence. Literary Movements and Influences

Machado de Assis's work was influenced by European literary currents, particularly Realism and Naturalism, but he also pioneered psychological realism and innovative narrative techniques.
