The Origins of the 3rd Infantry Division Patch

Early Insignia and Design

The 3rd Infantry Division was officially activated in 1917 during World War I. During its initial deployment, the division's insignia was a simple, recognizable symbol that would later evolve into the iconic patch known today. The earliest patches were often cloth insignia sewn onto uniforms, serving as visual identifiers for the unit. The original design featured a straightforward emblem that reflected the division's identity and mission. Over time, it became clear that a distinctive and symbolic patch was necessary to foster camaraderie and esprit de corps among soldiers.

The Adoption of the Blue Triangle

In 1918, during World War I, the division adopted a distinctive insignia: a blue triangle. This design was chosen for its simplicity and clarity on the battlefield. The blue triangle represented the division's commitment and readiness to serve, with the color blue symbolizing loyalty and steadfastness. This early patch was primarily made of wool and sewn onto the soldiers' uniforms, serving as a quick visual reference for identification. The design remained relatively unchanged through the end of World War I but laid the groundwork for future modifications.
