The Character of John Proctor

John Proctor is a farmers' man in Salem who is initially portrayed as a stern, somewhat cynical individual. He is a proud man who values his reputation and integrity above all. His previous affair with Abigail Williams, a young woman involved in the witchcraft accusations, haunts him and complicates his moral choices. Throughout the play, Proctor grapples with guilt and a desire for redemption, making his character arc one of the most compelling in American theatre.

The Setting of the Monologue
