The Claim of the Letter

The so-called Albert Pike letter to Mazzini is purportedly a three-page document penned by Pike, outlining a grand strategic plan for establishing global control through manipulating world events, religions, and revolutionary movements. The letter allegedly dates back to the late 19th century, during Pike's involvement in Freemasonry and his connections with secret societies. According to the narrative circulated in conspiracy circles, the letter describes a three-world war plan to be conducted over a century, culminating in a new world order that would see the rise of a one-world government, often linked with the concept of the Illuminati or other clandestine groups.

The most commonly cited version of the letter includes the following points:

Historical Authenticity and Debunking Myths

The Origin of the Conspiracy Theory

The first known mention of the Pike-Mazzini letter appeared in the 1920s in conspiracy literature, notably in "The Morning of the Magicians" (1960) by Louis Pauwels and Jacques Bergier, which popularized many esoteric and conspiracy theories. Since then, the letter has been circulated through various alternative history sources, often with sensational claims.

Lack of Verifiable Evidence

Extensive research by historians and scholars has failed to uncover any authentic correspondence between Pike and Mazzini that matches the descriptions in these theories. No credible archives or primary sources confirm the existence of such a letter. Most experts agree that the story is a fabrication or misinterpretation of Pike's writings on other topics, taken out of context.

Reasons Behind the Myth

Some scholars suggest that the myth serves as a scapegoat for societal anxieties about globalism, secret societies, and political upheaval. Its persistence may also be attributed to the allure of hidden knowledge and the human tendency to seek simple explanations for complex events.
